Construction of the London Eye.

Since opening in March 2000 the London Eye has become an iconic landmark of modern Britain. The London Eye is one of the most popular attractions in the UK. Since mid-January 2015, it has been known in branding as the Coca-Cola London Eye, according to an agreement signed in 2014.

Constructing the London Eye was a massive challenge. It is the tallest observation wheel in the world, (A) _____. It was a piece of daring innovation and revolutionary design (B) _____ with an exceptional team of experts. It took seven years and the skills of hundreds of people from five countries to make the London Eye a reality.

The London Eye passenger capsules are designed in a new form for an observation wheel. The result is a stunning 360 degree panoramic view from the top of the wheel, (C) _____.

Any visitor to the London Eye can't help but be amazed by the incredible six cables holding the wheel in place. The wheel cables include a variety of thick strong cables, (D) _____, holding the rim tight to the central bar. The main elements were manufactured in cast steel. The central bar itself was too large to be made as a single piece, (E) _____. All the casting was carried out by Skoda Steel. Each rotation of the London Eye takes about 30 minutes, meaning a capsule travels slowly, (F) _____ without the wheel having to stop.
